

CLEARWATER APPEALS TO ULSTER CO. VOTERS

Urges Them to Vote for the Adoption of the Proposed New Constitution and Explains Why This Action Will be for Their Benefit.

Judge Clearwater, who received nearly ten thousand votes from the people of Ulster county as a delegate at large to the constitutional convention, and whose majority over the highest candidate running against him was over 4,500, has prepared an address to the people of the county advocating the adoption of the revision of the constitution submitted by the constitutional convention, which is as follows:

To the People of the County of Ulster.

In view of the fact that without regard to party, you honored me with so large a vote in choosing me as one of the delegates at large to the constitutional convention, it would seem but proper that I should speak to you of what that convention did. The question presented for your consideration was whether the revision of the constitution is a faultless instrument, but whether it is an improvement upon existing conditions, because aside from the revelations of divinity, the world never has seen and never will see a perfectly flawless code of laws. It is conceded that at no time in their history have the people of New York chosen representatives better fitted by character, training, learning and broadness of vision to frame a constitution and to select the various phases of the constitution were composed of the men best fitted to deal with the subjects referred to them. No element of partisanship entered into their selection, and when it was known it met with universal approval. These committees immediately invited suggestions from the citizens of the state, and for nearly four months listened to leading judges, great lawyers, eminent financiers, men of large business affairs, educators, philanthropists, in fact every shade of opinion upon every subject which by any possibility could be a matter of constitutional provision was presented to the members of these committees with the result that 865 different suggestions for the amendment of the constitution were introduced. After a thorough consideration as ever has been given in this country to so grave a matter, 33 of the most important of these suggestions were adopted, and are now submitted for your approval, and I commend them to your careful consideration.

One of the most important is the expenditure of the money raised by taxation. Under the existing conditions the head of every state department for years has framed his estimate of the needs of his branch of the public service, always making it far larger than the actual requirements of his department made necessary. This he presented to the legislature, and then marshalled all his deputies and employees, and laid siege to senators, assemblymen and governors to obtain as large a proportion of the extravagant sum he demanded as the legislature could be induced to grant and the governor to approve. Then he framed the law which permitted him to spend this money with the result that he first determined how much he would ask for, and then disposed of what he got. The result is that the finances of the state are in a chaotic condition, and inevitably we have had the grossest extravagance. The constitutional convention bent their energies to the reformation of this great abuse, with the result that your approval, and now submit for your approval, a provision known as the budget, which requires the preparation in advance of the session of the legislature of itemized estimates of the amount of money which each department will need during the ensuing year.

These estimates are to be submitted to the governor on or before the 15th day of November in each year, and shall include a statement in detail of all moneys for which any general or special appropriation is desired at the ensuing session of the legislature, classified according to the relative importance of each, and in such form and with such explanation as the governor may require. The governor is required to give a public hearing upon all these estimates, which any citizen may attend, and to hear any criticism upon or any approval of the estimates, and the governor may require not only the attendance of heads of departments, but of any or all their subordinates, and after the public hearing and hearing of the heads and subordinates of departments, it becomes his duty to revise the estimates according to his judgment. Then on or before the first day of February following he is required to submit to the legislature a budget containing a complete plan of the proposed expenditures, accompanied by the estimated revenues of the state for the same period. This budget must contain all the estimates as revised by him, and must be accompanied by a bill or bills for all the proposed appropriations clearly itemized, and it shall show the estimated surplus or deficit or revenues at the end of the current fiscal year, together with the measures of tax, if any, which the governor may propose for the increase of the revenues. In addition to all this it must be accompanied by a statement of the current assets, liabilities, revenues and surplus or deficit of the state, a statement of the debts and reforms make their way slowly, and that always there is opposition, always discouragement, but the nation, the state, the county, the community and the individual which advances and achieves is the one that aspires to better things, and seizes them when they come within its grasp, and I sincerely trust that you will give to this revision that cordial support which I feel that it deserves at your hands.

Respectfully,
A. T. CLEARWATER.
Kingston, N. Y., October 28, 1915.

ONLY THREE OPPOSE NEW CONSTITUTION

Grogan, Klein and Cahill Only Members of Ulster Bar Association to Vote Against Resolutions of Approval.

The meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association held at the court house Wednesday evening was largely attended, not only by members of the bar, but by citizens of Kingston and persons in attendance at the trial term of the Supreme court.

County Judge Jenkins, president of the association, presided, and introduced Judge Clearwater as president of the State Bar Association and delegate-at-large to the Constitutional Convention. Judge Clearwater paid a high tribute to his fellow delegates, ex-District Attorney John N. Vanderlyn and Judge Sharpe, whom he said were among the most respected and influential delegates to the convention.

He discussed three phases of the revised Constitution. First, the Budget, which he said would work the greatest reform in the administration of the state finances which had been accomplished in the history of the country. He reviewed the present extravagant method of running the state with 152 departments and 116,000 employees, and stated that the adopting of the new Constitution by actual computation would reduce the running expenses of the state $30,000 a day.

He then reviewed the provision of the Constitution to end the law's delay, showing how its adoption would wipe out about 3,000 of the sections of the cumbersome Code of Civil Procedure.

Afterwards he took up the Short Ballot provision which he explained at length and showed how the revised constitution would settle responsibility for the administration of the state affairs upon the governor instead of so scattering it that it was impossible to hold any one official personally to account for wrong doing.

The judge was followed by Mr. Vanderlyn, who after saying that Judge Clearwater's contribution to the debates of the convention ranked among the ablest of the discussions at Albany and that Judge Sharpe's attendance at the sessions of the Convention were phenomenal for their regularity, discussed both the Budget and the Short Ballot at considerable length. Also he gave an account of the hearings and debates before the committees on Bill of Rights and Education, of which he was a member, and said that he never had known a body of men more sincerely desirous of framing a proper code of laws than the delegates to the Convention.

Mr. Vanderlyn was followed by DuBois G. Atkins, who able presented his views regarding the various provisions of the Constitution, laying particular emphasis upon the care with which the rights of the taxpayers were guarded and ample provision made for educational purposes.

Mayor Canfield spoke at length upon the Home Rule provision of the Constitution, particularly as to its economical features. He stated that his great-grandfather had been president of the village of Rondout when that village had incurred an indebtedness which had come down by inheritance to his administration which now was required to make provision for its payment. Such a state of affairs, the mayor said, would be absolutely impossible if the revised Constitution were adopted.

Assemblyman Henry R. DeWitt discussed the discussion with an account of his observations of the working of the Convention and his opinion that the revision of the legislature would be so clearly defined by its adoption that it would be impossible for the members of that body to escape accountability for what they did.

Judge Clearwater then offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the Ulster County Bar Association and the citizens of Ulster county in attendance at this meeting heartily approve the revision of the Constitution framed and submitted by the Constitutional Convention, and cordially commend its adoption by the electors of the county at the coming election."

William H. Grogan opposed the adoption of the resolution, which was carried by a rising vote. Mr. Grogan, Henry Klein and John T. Cahill alone voting against it.

All the speakers were listened to with the closest attention and all of them were heartily applauded.

ELECTROCUTION OF MARQUARDT DEC. 13

Ludwig Marquardt, the murderer of Mrs. Amelia Paulus, will be executed the week of December 13, at Sing Sing, according to word received at the district attorney's office late Wednesday afternoon. Marquardt was convicted in county court and an appeal was taken. Tuesday afternoon the court of appeals handed down its decision affirming the conviction, finding nothing upon which to base a reversal of the judgment of the court below. Marquardt murdered Mrs. Paulus by cutting her throat with a razor on the evening of August 5, 1914, while she was returning to her home on Third avenue, accompanied by her two small children.

Fined for Shooting Robins.

Three Italian hunters, Ernest Passero, John Gardano and Nicholas Dia Napoli of Brooklyn were arrested in Highland on Tuesday night on the charge of shooting robins. Game Warden Nolan of Milton learned that a party of hunters was hunting robins but when he visited the scene the men had gone to the ferry. Returning there Mr. Nolan placed them under arrest. Fines aggregating $75 were imposed by Justice DuBois, the fine being $25 for each bird killed. Officers have gone to Brooklyn to try to round up the other men who were in the party. The fines were all paid.

SOCIALIST TO HEAD FRENCH MINISTRY

Paris, Oct. 28.—Premier Rene Viviani of France resigned today and his resignation was followed by the collapse of the entire cabinet.

Aristide Briand, a socialist, was offered the premiership by President Poincare and immediately took steps to form a new ministry.

The resignation of Premier Viviani is attributed to the Balkan crisis. His was the second retirement from the cabinet for the same reason, the first being that of Foreign Minister Theophile Delcasse, who resigned on October 14.

M. Briand offered the portfolio of minister of war to General Gallieni, military governor of Paris.

Deputy Paul Painleve, president of the marine committee of the chamber of deputies; M. de Figenet, Leon Bourgeois and Emilio Combes were summoned by M. Briand and offered places in the new government.

M. Combes, who was formerly premier of France, accepted a place in the government, but he was without any definite portfolio.

The post of minister of marine was offered to M. Lacaze.

According to official circles M. Viviani resigned rather than reorganize the government.

"A Pair of Sixes"

When "A Pair of Sixes" was produced at the Longacre Theater, New York, last year, a number of newspaper writers had the courage to comment on the title and prophesy that it would draw "full houses." The success of the play has vindicated the "jokelet," but these various quotations from the great American card game have led a few of the innocent-minded to believe that the author has dramatized the fascinating game of poker. The card game is merely an incident in the plot, and upon its result is based a series of the most laughable complications ever seen on the stage. To express mildly it is hugely amusing. The play will be seen here tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Pretty Cantata Tomorrow.

Don't forget the pretty cantata, "The Crowning of Love," which the young ladies of the Queen Esther Circle of the St. James's M. E. Church will give in the lecture room of the church tomorrow, Friday evening. It promises to be a delightful affair. Home made candy for sale, will add to the sweetness of the occasion.

20 CHILDREN KILLED IN PARISH SCHOOL FIRE

Boiler Explosion and Fire in Basement of Building in Which 672 Pupils Were at Prayer—Building Destroyed and Number of Dead Not Known.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 28.—At least 20 boys and girls were killed when fire started in the basement of St. John's Parochial School here today and was spread throughout the building by a boiler explosion. There were 672 pupils in the school and the greater number of them were in their places and at prayer when the fire started at 9 o'clock. At ten minutes past nine practically the whole lower floor was burning.

Boys and girls were jumping from the second story windows or climbing down the ladders that were hurriedly secured. But so many were trapped in the building that Father Nicholas J. Murphy, rector of the church and head of the school, said at 10:30 o'clock: "I believe many bodies will be found on the third floor unless the floor falls before the fire is extinguished."

By 10:30 the whole building was apparently sure of destruction. Before that hour the golden cross on the roof had fallen through and the entire east side of the building was visibly tottering.

The dramatic and heart rending incidents that attended the fire were beyond number. But the most stirring scene was enacted at the very front door.

In the rush for the door when the fire gong sounded, a number of pupils got out. But the sweep of the flames cut off that exit so suddenly that perhaps a dozen boys and girls were trapped inside the very entrance, one body lying within three feet of the threshold.

Firemen with two lines of hose made a rush at the doorway and tried to fight their way in. A sudden sweep of draught sent the flames so fiercely in their faces that they were beaten back. They made a second try, this time throwing over the tangle of little bodies a number of heavy rubber blankets. Then from outside the door, as near as they could get, they directed a stream of water upon the blankets to keep the fire from reaching the door.

But in a short time, so desperately swift was the progress of the fire, efforts of the firemen were needed elsewhere. They turned over one of the nozzles to Patrolman Timothy O'Connor. The officer forced his way to the very doorway and there stood, spraying the water over the blanket covered heap.

The walls above him trembled and threatened to fall but he stood his ground, his face blistered by the heat.

The steady work of the line hose in O'Connor's hands kept back the flames that crept along the floor to take the bodies and made possible the saving of life.

There were many injured. Some were burned, some bruised or shaken when they jumped from the windows of the school. The injured were hurried first to the Thomas hospital in Peabody, and when accommodations there exhausted, to other institutions in adjoining towns and cities.

Of the fifteen Sisters of Notre Dame who served as teachers, all were believed to have been saved; but one was taken to the hospital in a serious condition.

In the case of many of those taken to the hospitals, the physicians said that death was sure.

Sister Algeon was rescued from the building by several men. Her face was badly scratched by the hands of frenzied pupils she had passed out of the first story windows. Her veil was burned away.

Assessor David A. Barry told this story:

"I was with several men who saw a boy hanging to the window sill on the second floor. Flames were sweeping out of the window and licking at his hands. Behind him, through the smoke, we could see the forms of half a dozen other boys and girls."

Finally a great rush of flame swept out of the window and the boy jumped. We had repeatedly called on him to leap but he had evidently been paralyzed by fear. We spread out a coat for him to jump into. He hit the coat with such force that it was torn apart and he struck the ground, severely spraining his wrist. The boy was Henry Armstrong, aged eleven.

John Doherty, janitor of the building, who ran the boiler, said:

"I had just stepped out to the barn in the rear of the school when the explosion occurred. I had left the fire under the boiler banked and I am positive everything about it was all right. There was hardly any steam up in the boiler. I cannot understand how the explosion occurred. I had never noticed anything out of the way with the boiler. I had been running it for about two weeks this fall."

There were no outside fire escapes upon the school. It was stated by a police officer. He added that the stairs were made out of wood.

The fire started at 9 o'clock exactly, according to the general version. The boiler explosion occurred about three minutes later, and the explosion sent a great column of black smoke high in the air above the building.

To show how swiftly the fire spread, the story of Elizabeth Brannigan, a 16-year old girl who was a member of the third class, in the high school, is illuminating:

"We were at our half hourly devotions, in our room on the third floor," she said, "when the fire signal sounded. I supposed the signal was merely for a test drill such as were frequently given."

"We rose and marched steadily out of the room into the hallway. The hall was filled with smoke and hot air that burned you. We could hardly breathe. The heat was terrible. We were on the third floor. We went down stairs as fast as we could. But we could not get out of the door. There was no door we could get out of. We ran into the school rooms down there and threw up the windows and jumped out."

Warren D. King, one of the men who was the first to arrive at the scene told of the heroism of the sisters.

"We rescued one of the heroines of the fire," he said. "She was one of the sisters. She had passed twelve children out of a first story window before the flames drove her away from her post."

"This sister stayed at the window until the last possible moment passing the children to the men outside."

The church building near the school was opened for a calling of the roll of survivors. It was hoped by this means to establish the list of the missing as early as possible.

Most of the 21 bodies that were taken to the undertaking shops directly after being brought from the building were difficult to identify.

The fire raged so long in the building that it was believed identification of further bodies would be even more difficult.

The mother superior of the school was so overcome that she could not speak. She sat in a dazed condition, surrounded by other sisters. Many of the sisters were suffering from burns.

Lawrence Cudlar leaped from a top floor with his clothing in flames. He broke one leg when rescuers leaped to catch him after his long leap.

Sister Algeon, one of the heroines of the fire, is reported in a critical condition at the Thomas Hospital. Her face was badly burned and she is suffering from shock.

Sister Catherine of Nativity was badly burned about the arms and body.

The school destroyed. The loss (police estimate) $150,000.

The known dead are all little children, their bodies ranged in a pitiful row at the Conway undertaking establishment.

The cause of the fire cannot be stated. It is a mystery; and there was in the strange rapidity with which it spread something unexplained.

The state police began an immediate investigation.

That the fire was started by a boiler explosion was the first version; the second that the fire started near the boiler and caused an explosion which spread the fire throughout the building.

Later investigation blasted both theories. Both the state boiler inspector and the head of the school said there was no explosion of the boiler, while the janitor stated that the fires were banked and there was little or no steam in the heating apparatus.

Many neighbors said they heard no explosion. Others said they heard one. Concerning those children who lost their lives, many will never be positively identified. The fire, passing over, left each a mere indistinguishable little form.

That there are other dead is considered certain. Father Murphy, head of the school, said that he expected that bodies would be found on the third floor. The second and third floors collapsed before the fire was over, but it is held certain that from six to fifteen bodies will be discovered in the ruins.

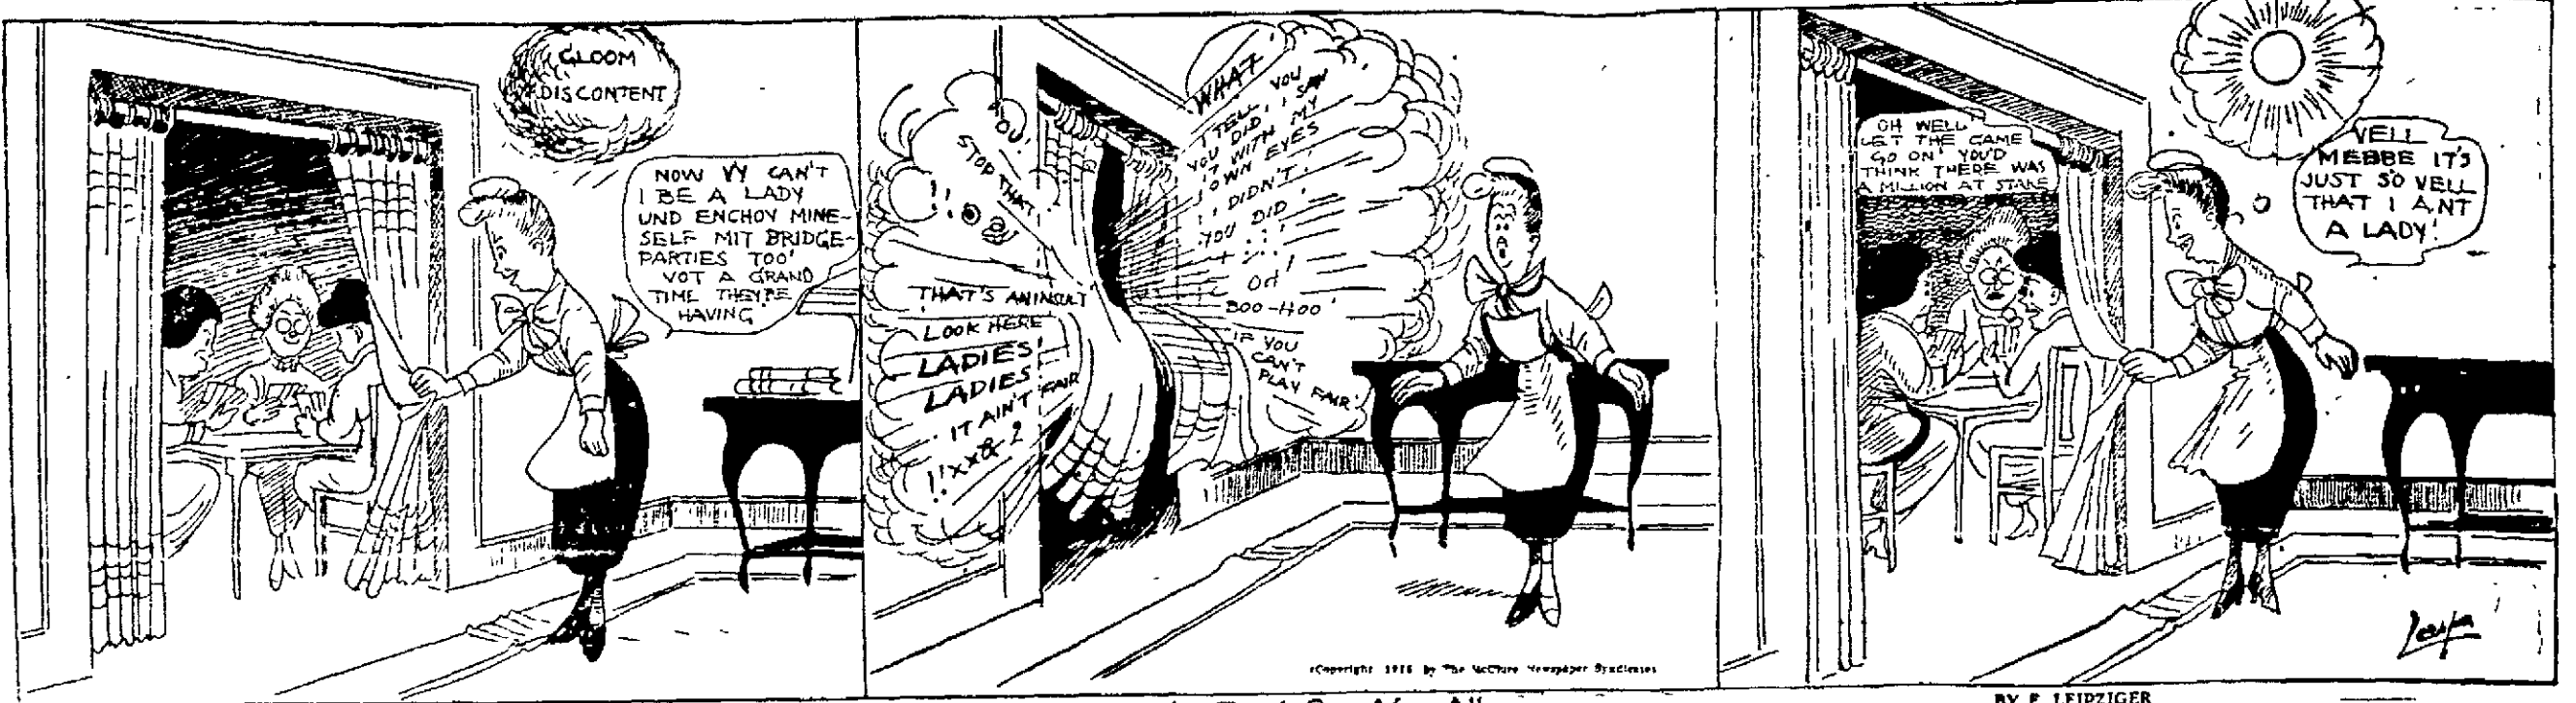

Medical Examiner Foster examined the bodies at the undertaking rooms in an effort to find means of identifying them, but without success.

In the throng about the building as it burned and afterward were scores of grief-strung parents—some hunting in a frenzy for their children, others mutely thankful hurrying away with daughters or sons. It was a holocaust of children for so far as is known no grown people lost their lives.

One of the heroic incidents of the fire was a noble attempt made by one of the sisters of Notre Dame convent to save the life of Mary Meade, 15, who died soon after being taken, terribly burned, to the Thomas hospital.

"In the height of the excitement," said an eye-witness who refused to give his name, "one of the sisters was seen fighting her way from the burning building with arms in arms. The sisters were thought to flames, but she gave no thought to this. As she struggled out with the flames, she tried to beat out the flames that had caught the girl's clothes. The sister's hands were badly burned."

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Oct. 28.—The Methodist and Reformed churches will hold a union prayer service this evening in the Reformed Church auditorium, beginning at 7.15 instead of 7.30 as is the custom. The subject of Mr. Muyskens's address will be "How to overcome our faults." This is the last prayer service to be conducted by Mr. Muyskens and it is hoped for a large attendance from both congregations.

For the past week boys have been annoying Mrs. Margaret A. Contant of Schreyer street by throwing stones and apples at her house and breaking window glass and committing other depredations. The names of some of them are known and if the nuisance is not stopped arrests will be made and the offenders punished to the full extent of the law.

The members of the consistory of the Reformed Church and the official board of the Methodist Church, together with their respective pastors, the Rev. John Muyskens and the Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout, were given a complete surprise last evening by being presented with an American flag from the members of Esopus Council, No. 42, Daughters of Liberty. The presentation speech was made by Bertha Spinnever and was responded to by the pastors and officers of the churches. After the presentation ceremonies, dainty refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening spent.

Do not forget the entertainment and cake sale Friday evening in the Reformed Church basement. A jolly good time awaits you. No admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken.

A large number of teams are busy hauling gravel from the West Shore station at Port Ewen to the state road, to be used as a top dressing. House cleaning is in order in this village. This not only applies to the household duties but a state inspector is making a house to house canvass setting in close touch with the surrounding. She has been an unwelcome visitor in several homes.

ABOUT 300,000 BABIES DIE BEFORE ONE YEAR

The Census Bureau estimates that 300,000 babies died in this country last year before the age of one year, and it is stated that one-half of these deaths were needless if all mothers were strong and infants were breast-fed.

Expectant mothers should strive to increase their strength with the strength-building fats in Scott's Emulsion which improves the blood, suppresses nervousness, aids the quality of milk, and feeds the very life cells.

Worth Knowing.

Every housekeeper knows that in a small household where only one or two servants are kept, several guests over Sunday mean a great deal of work—manual labor for the domestics and head work and responsibility for the hostess. If things are to go smoothly and hospitably it is to be perfectly expressed somebody has got to do a deal of thinking and preparing beforehand and this somebody is, naturally, the housekeeper and hostess.

Chinese Amulet.

One of the commonest amulets worn by an only son in China is a small silver lock, according to the authors of "The Book of Talismans." The rather curious coins from about a hundred different heads of families, and has them exchanged for silver, which is converted into a native name-lock used to fasten a silver chain round the boy's neck. This, it is believed, will preserve him from evil spirits, lock him to life and contribute to his estate and longevity.

A FETCHING NOVELTY.

A Cheesecake Suit of Black and White Mixture.

A DAPPER EFFECT.

Trimness is the first word about this suit, and the snug military collar and metal buttons are its points of interest. Black velvet is used to reinforce the cuffs and collar, which are outlined by bias bands, as is the front. The irregular skirt of the coat hangs in a graceful flare, and the skirt itself is a good walking length.

Hard Job.

One of the hardest jobs I know of is to take a rifle when you're feeling nice and sociable, in a left-hand-drive machine with a fellow who is dead in the right ear and has to stop the car and turn his head toward you every time you make a remark to him.—Farm Life.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

Fourth Binnewater.

James Dietz spent last Saturday and Sunday with friends at Rockland Lake.

Mrs. L. D. Prall is visiting friends at Bayonne, N. J.

North Bundy and William Heine drew two large loads of apples to Kingston to the boat for shipment to New York city on Wednesday.

James Dietz and Gus Dreyfuss were busy on Tuesday loading shale and covering the slate rock recently placed on the road. There is yet need of about one day's work to complete the job.

Frank and Minnie Schrowang have returned from New York city, where they have spent several days, visiting with friends.

Herbert Wolven and family moved to Saugerties on Thursday.

Our mailman distributed copies of the proposed constitution for this state which we will vote on next Tuesday. The boys do not favor it as a whole and they say they are going to vote no.

Whiteport.

Mrs. Fred Kallop is visiting friends at Chester, Pa., for two weeks.

Miss Emma Heiser of Vassar College spent Sunday home with her mother.

Adam Fagher is busy painting his house which is a great improvement to the neighborhood. A few weeks ago he had a new roof put on.

On last Wednesday at 4 p. m., one of our enterprising young men, Joe Mooney and also a young lady, Miss Lizzie Stephens journeyed to Rosendale and called on Father Duffy at St. Peter's rectory and were married. Raymond Davenport acting as best man and Miss Mabel McLaughlin of Atlantic City acting as bridesmaid, accompanying them. Some time ago Mr. Mooney purchased the Jewel farm and has had the house redecorated and completely furnished new throughout and the young couple went direct to their own home, where they now reside. Mr. and Mrs. Mooney have the best wishes of the entire community for their future happiness and prosperity. A number of Joe's friends from Binnewater came over on Thursday night to help Mr. and Mrs. Mooney celebrate the event.

Miss Selena Wedge visited friends in Kingston Wednesday.

Mrs. Henry Eager and little children were in Kingston Friday.

James Rowe visited his parents Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Pelham and little daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wirth and family.

Sixteen ladies from Maple Hill took an excursion trip around the Ashokan reservoir in the auto bus on Tuesday.

Cornelius LeFever has a new rabbit hound which he bought from a breeder in Massachusetts. His old dog he presented to F. T. Buck and now Frank intends to make the rabbits jump.

Mrs. Alice Leonard died on Saturday morning, in her 82 year at the home of her grand niece, Mrs. Edward Leonard, 225 West 12th street, Kingston, N. Y.

For a few days, her funeral was held on Tuesday morning from St. Peter's church, Rosendale, and the remains were interred in St. Peter's cemetery. She is survived by four sons and two daughters, William, who lives in Montana, James of Lake Mohonk, Patrick of New York, John of Kingston, Mrs. J. McCarthy of Union, Montana, and Ceila of Seattle, Washington. For many years Mrs. Leonard lived in High Falls and Rosendale, where she was held in high esteem and was greatly respected. Many of the old residents of these places attended the funeral, which was in charge of undertaker McCabe. Mrs. Leonard was born in County Tipperary, Ireland and came to this country about sixty years ago.

Making One's Life.

I know of no more encouraging fact than the unquestionable ability of a man to elevate his life by a conscious endeavor. It is something to be able to paint a particular picture, or to carve a statue, and so make a few objects beautiful; but it is far more glorious to carve and paint the very atmosphere and medium through which we work, which morally we can do.—Thoreau.

DON'T PUT ON THE BRAKES.

In last year's election the voters of this State by a rousing majority expressed their condemnation of the Democratic administration and put the Republican party in power for the express purpose of reforming the Government. This work has been only partly accomplished. One reason is that the Legislature had to adjourn early to get out of the way of the Constitutional Convention, which had to meet in the Assembly chamber. Another was that Democratic officials had so entrenched themselves that they could not be put out of office immediately without a deal of what is called "ripper" legislation, which the Republicans thought it politic to avoid as much as possible. The useless office of fire marshal and the worthless department of Economy and Efficiency have been abolished and a few thousand lazy heelers who did nothing but draw salaries have been fired, but, after all, only a beginning has been made. Legislative committees have been hard at work during the summer and will have well-considered plans for future and yet more important reforms to submit when the Legislature meets. There is every reason to believe that the business of the State, before another year rolls around, will be put in a shape which would not be discreditable to a successful private enterprise.

The Governor and the State Senate hold over, but we are about to elect a new Assembly. If it is Republican the much-needed reforms will be carried on. If not, brakes will lock the wheels of progress.

WHY WASTE TIME AND MONEY?

If women already have everything they can ask for and are made a highly favored class, what is the use of asking them to spend their time in political work and thereby increasing our already heavy election expenses by fifty or seventy-five per cent? There is only one answer. A month ago we printed a summary of the laws of New York as they make discriminations because of sex. The accuracy of this summary is vouched for by one of the best lawyers in Kingston, and no one has disputed a single item. At the request of many persons we republish it to refresh the memory of voters. Here it is:

Married woman not required to contribute to support of family.
Woman may work, earn money, and spend it as she pleases.

May own real and personal property and dispose of it or sell it without her husband's knowledge or consent.

Husband cannot dispose of real estate without wife's consent.
Wife cannot be required to pay husband's bills even if contracted for support of family.

Husband must pay wife's bills whether for the family or for her own personal expenses.

If wife obtains divorce, husband must pay alimony. If husband obtains divorce even though wife's fault, she pays nothing.

Wife may have millions and cut her husband off without a cent. Husband cannot cut off wife without dower right.

If husband owns home, he cannot sell or mortgage it without wife's consent. If wife owns it, she may do as she pleases with it, and without consulting him at all.

If husband fails to support wife, he may be arrested and prosecuted criminally. Wife cannot be compelled to support husband under any circumstances no matter how rich she may be, nor how poor he may become.

A father cannot by will appoint a guardian for minor children against the wishes of the mother.
All women are exempt from jury and military service.

Woman is not discriminated against by any New York State Law.

WHAT TAMMANY IS AFTER.

A good many people have been wondering why it is that Tammany Hall, after forcing by fraudulent votes the holding of a Constitutional Convention, and after its delegates in the Convention had voted for the submission of the document as it stands, should have suddenly changed front and have inaugurated a desperate effort to defeat the Constitution. We have already explained that Murphy fancies that Wilson may possibly gain sufficiently in popularity to be re-elected.

and bring about Democratic victories next year and the year after. If this dream should be realized there might be another Constitutional Convention controlled by Tammany, and the adoption of which Tammany might accomplish. What kind of a Constitution would it be? What does Tammany want anyway? Here is about the best answer we have seen, and it ought to enchain the interest of every voter:

First: In order to force personal registration upon the rural voters, as she tried to do in 1913, when she controlled the Legislature and passed an act for that purpose which the courts held unconstitutional. The present revised Constitution continues the protection of the rural voter against personal registration. She wishes to change it.

Second: In order to apportion the State according to population instead of citizenship. Our present apportionment is based upon citizenship. New York City contains hundreds of thousands of aliens, who are not naturalized. Tammany's representatives in the Convention last summer urged that the apportionment should be changed so as to rest upon population. This would go far toward giving New York City control of the Legislature. The Convention last summer defeated her effort. That is another reason why she wants another change.

Third: In order to establish Assembly districts without regard to County lines. Her representatives urged this last summer in the Convention. They were defeated. Her orators clamored for it last Friday. If she succeeds, she will break down County lines throughout the State, and New York City would soon absolutely dominate the Assembly.

Fourth: In order to wipe out the present provisions of the Constitution, which provides that New York, Bronx and Kings Counties shall not elect more than half the Senate. She tried for this last summer. She was beaten. She clamors for it now. Do the voters upstate wish the Senate to be controlled by those counties? If so, the surest way to accomplish it, is to defeat the new Constitution which protects them against it.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

October 23, 1895.—Dr. Page assumed temporary charge of St. John's Church.

October 23, 1905.—Charles Murphy, thinsmith, fatally injured by fall from roof.
Simon Harris and Hinde Efrom married.

Passenger coach on West Shore burned at the Broadway crossing.

GRANITE.

Granite, Oct. 23.—Harold Decker of New York is visiting his mother, Mrs. Rosetta Decker.

Mrs. Webster Sheldon left Tuesday for Rosendale where she expects to spend a few days with friends.

Dr. Charles Vernoy of Cortland, N. Y., motored through this place Sunday, en route to some of his old friends.

Mrs. Selah Sheldon, who underwent an operation at the Benedictine Sanitarium, Kingston, Friday last, is doing nicely.

Miss Bertha Markle was the guest of her schoolmate, Miss Hazel Turner, Tuesday.

Mrs. Peter Addis, who has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Eli Terwilliger, of New Paltz, has returned to her home here.

Clyde Sheldon, who was called home on account of his mother's illness, has returned to his position in Walden.

The warrant for collecting school tax on one per cent expired Monday, October 23. All taxes will now be paid on five per cent.

We are all glad to hear that Lawrence Addis, who underwent an operation at the Wauna Sanitarium, Kingston, is improving so nicely, it is expected home Friday.

Miss Ruby Smith, who has been ill with grip, is able to be out again.

Don't forget the preaching services to be held in the M. E. Church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Pryne. Mr. Pryne's sermons are always so interesting we would like to see more in attendance.

Miss Gladys Sheldon, who had the misfortune to fall and very badly sprain her arm, is able to be out again.

We are all pleased to hear that Miss Hazel Slater, who is ill at Poughkeepsie, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gillespie of High Falls was the guest of Hebron Sheldon on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norton Cross and children, who have been spending some time with Mrs. Markle and family, have returned to their home in Walkkill.

Russell Decker of Minnewaska visited his parents in this place on Sunday.

Herman Benjamin and sister, Ida, have gone to Brooklyn for the winter.

An entertainment consisting of dialogues, singing, etc., will be given in the Granite M. E. Church, on Friday evening, November 5.

The special feature of the evening will be a dialogue entitled, "When Women Vote." Just the thing for our voting men. A very good type of the suffrage women of the present day is given. Those who have voted for suffrage will wish they had not, and those who have not voted against it will congratulate themselves. Refreshments will be served after entertainment. Everybody come. Admission only 10 cents. If stormy, next fair evening.

C. E. Entertainment.
The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Reformed Church has prepared a pleasing entertainment of shadow pictures which will be given in the chapel of that church on Friday evening of this week. There will be a small admission of ten cents and at the conclusion of the entertainment, ice cream and cake may be procured for a small sum.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"You say that Jenkins owes everything he has to you?" "Worse! He owes much more than he has to me."—Boston Transcript.

Danger ahead! Blasting! W. T. Boom married Helen Dinah Mite at St. Paul, Minn., on Wednesday.—Buffalo Express.

"There's no royal road to riches." "No. Every fellow who wants to travel the straight path is obliged to make long, hard detours through the mud at times."—Detroit Free Press.

"Marriages," said the old-fashioned sentimentalist, "are made in heaven." "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "But some of them are like motor cars. They run badly after they leave the factory."—Washington Star.

"Then you have no castles in America?" "Not yet." "You mean things are tending that way?" "Well, it seems to me sometimes that some people are trying to classify us according to the automobiles we own."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I want to help you," said the fussy man, "but if I give you a nickel, I'm afraid you won't put it to good use." "Well," replied the philosophic tramp, "a nickel ain't enough to do much harm with, or much good, either, so take a chance, governor."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Going Some.

An Englishman, Irishman and Scotchman made an agreement among themselves that whoever died first should have five pounds placed on his coffin by each of the others. The Irishman was the first to die. Shortly afterward the Scotchman met the Englishman and asked him if he had fulfilled the agreement. "Yes," said the Englishman, "I put on five sovereigns." "What did you put on?" "Oh, I just wrote me a check for ten pounds," said the Scotchman. "An' took your five sovereigns as change."—Argonaut.

The Blissful Day.

It was the glorious summer, but it was windy and dusty, and the dust beat mercilessly into their faces as the young man and maiden turned the corner of the street.

"Did you get any in your eyes, darling?" he asked, fondly, drawing her closely to him.

"Yes, sweetheart," she murmured, searching for her elusive handkerchief.

"Which eye, beloved?" he pressed. "The right one, love! Did you get any in yours?"

"Yes, dear heart!" he responded, using the same corner of the handkerchief that she had used.

"How sweet!" she exclaimed. "And yours was in the right eye, too?"

"Yes, dearest."

"Ah!" she thrilled. "Do you suppose it could have been part of the same piece of dust that got in our eyes?"

"I hope it was!" he exclaimed fervently, blinking a pleasurable beam with his good eye.

"Wouldn't it be lovely, love?" she cried.

"Oh, love, wouldn't it?" he wriggled.

And the wind howled as though in pain, and from the house opposite a "Votes for Women" board fell with a sickening crash upon the pavement.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Couldn't Leave.

They were late at the special sale and found a crowd clear out to the floors.

"Isn't it dreadful?" asked No. 1. "Perfectly awful," replied No. 2. "Think of cultivated, intelligent women in such a jam as that?"

"How can they endure it?" "No woman of dignity would be caught in such a mob, and I am going right back home."

"So am I."

"Then come on. Hold on a minute though. What's that woman saying?"

"Why, that she got three cakes of regular 10-cent soap for 15 cents. Oh, Susan, how can we go home?"

"We can't. Take hold of my hand and turn your shoulder to the crowd and we will push our way in there or die in the attempt."—Washington Herald.

Companions in Misfortune.

Two men sat at the same table in a restaurant of the cheaper sort in Berlin. They were strangers to each other, but not too proud to talk.

"Hard times," said one, putting down regretfully his empty beer glass.

"Very hard times," said the other as he speared with his fork the last morsel of sausage.

"I have seen better days." "And I."

"Only a year ago, too." "Just about that."

"Precisely. My business is gone clean to the devil."

"The same with mine." "And what is your business, may I ask?"

"I am a dancing master—a professor of the fox trot and allied arts—and you?"

"I am a professor of international law."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

QUARRYVILLE.

Quarryville, Oct. 23.—Henry Hallenbeck and family spent Sunday with James Young at Alsen.

Claude Post and wife spent Sunday at West Saugerties.

Mrs. Myron Piers spent Tuesday with Mrs. Elton Hommel at Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. William Von Gretchen of Catskill spent Sunday at De Witt Schoonmaker's.

Some of our men are again loading a stone barge at Maxwell's dock, Saugerties. It is said that after election they are to buy stone.

It will be worth while for you to come to Sunday school next Sunday as our pastor is to have some idols on exhibition that are worshipped over in India.

There is to be a temperance rally in Zeigler's Hall Friday night of this week. Some of the best speakers in the town are to address the meeting.

AUTOMOBILE LIGHTS WERE NOT BURNING

That the headlights were not lighted on the automobile driven by Fred Van Voorhees of Saugerties, which collided with the motorcycle ridden by Floyd Overbaugh and Harry Rose on the evening of September 12, 1914, was the gist of the testimony given by Clyde Hoyer, a superintendent of highways of the town of Saugerties, and Sidney Pulver of Malden on Wednesday afternoon before Judge Hasbrouck and jury in supreme court when the action brought by Mrs. Jennie Rose to recover $20,000 damages for the death of her son from Mr. Van Voorhees was continued. The collision occurred on the road between Malden and Saugerties near the residence of Hugh Burns and resulted in the death of Overbaugh and Rose. The trial was continued this morning.

At the afternoon session on Wednesday the first witness called by George F. Kaufman, who, with Cunningham & Traver, represents Mrs. Rose, was Mrs. Mary Burns, near whose home the fatal accident occurred. She said that she did not visit the scene until the following morning and the gist of her testimony was that she saw blood spots on the west side of the road.

Clyde Hoyer said that he was driving from Malden to Saugerties in a wagon in which was riding Sidney Pulver and Charles Wolven. They had a lighted lantern on their wagon. They had proceeded some distance beyond the point where the accident occurred when an automobile passed them. Mr. Hoyer said that the headlights were not lighted and that only the side lights on the automobile were lighted and that they were very dim. According to his story the automobile came near running them down and sheared off of the way just in time. They were on their right side of the road but the machine was not. When the automobile passed Mr. Hoyer shouted at the driver of the car, "Where in are your lights?" He said the driver responded by saying, "Go to —"

A short time later he heard the crash of the collision but did not stop and had driven into the village limits of Saugerties when a man on a bicycle passed the wagon and informed them there had been a collision and two men were killed. They immediately turned around and drove back to the scene of the collision.

Mr. Pulver's testimony was practically the same with the exception that he said he did not hear the crash of the collision.

Floyd Overbaugh of Saugerties testified that he was in Zeigler's saloon at Saugerties a short time before the collision and had a drink with Van Voorhees. On cross examination by Corporation Counsel Brinnier, who represents Van Voorhees, the witness said that there was nothing at that time to indicate to him that Van Voorhees was drunk.

Mrs. William Mauterstock of Market street, Saugerties, said she with another young lady were walking on the street when the automobile passed driven by Van Voorhees. She said that Van Voorhees had the appearance of being drunk. This was about an hour and a half before the collision.

With her testimony the plaintiff rested, and a motion to dismiss by Mr. Brinnier was denied by the court.

The first witness called by Mr. Brinnier was Dr. Rudolph Diedling of Saugerties. Dr. Diedling was on the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred and described conditions as he saw them. He said that Van Voorhees was sober.

In reply to questions it was brought out that an investigation of the accident was made by Dr. Diedling, who said he was acting coroner.

Mr. Brinnier contended that there was no such office as "acting coroner" as the coroner had no authority to designate any one to act for him. The doctor had examined a number of witnesses and had taken their statements which were written down by Byron L. Davis, an attorney of Saugerties, who the doctor said was his counsel.

Dr. Diedling on cross examination was examined at length by District Attorney Cunningham regarding the statement said to have been made to him by John Stevenson shortly after the accident.

The doctor denied that the night of the accident he had told Van Voorhees not to worry as it would be all right and they would get him clear without paying a cent, or words to that effect.

The trial was continued this morning.

KRUMVILLE.

Krumville, Oct. 23.—The people of this place were very much saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Virgil Chambers of Whitfield. Much sympathy is extended to the family.

There will be services in the Krumville Church Sunday, October 31, by the Rev. Mr. Dangremont at 11 a. m. He comes as a candidate and hopes to see a large congregation.

Mrs. Benjamin Davis is in bad health and under the care of Dr. Hutcherson.

Mrs. Benjamin Merrihew and daughter, Anna, and nephew, Henry, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Cornelia Krum.

Mrs. Mary DuBois and daughter, Beulah, spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. George Van Kleeck, at Samsonville.

The Misses Anna and Lulu Merrihew were very pleasantly entertained at the home of their brother, Ezra Merrihew.

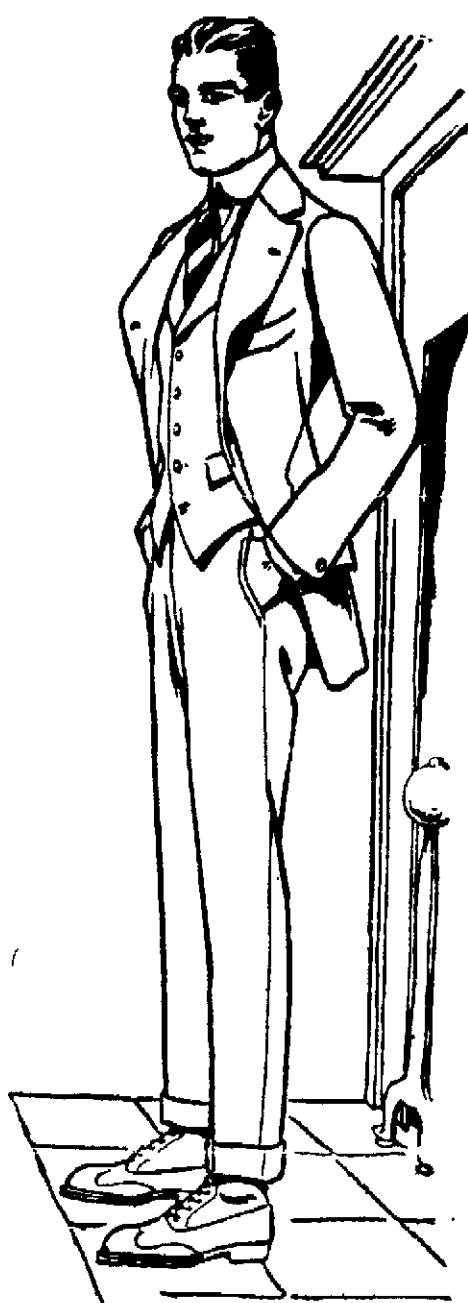

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis and little son, Arthur, Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck, Mrs. Frank Lyons and daughter, Elsie, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop.

Simon Merrihew and son, Henry, and mother spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis and Mrs. Joanna Van Kleeck returned home Wednesday after spending ten days with relatives in this place.

MAKES RULE OF PEOPLE EFFECTIVE

Proposed Constitution Confirms Their Power.

OBJECTIONS SWEEP AWAY

Henry L. Stimson, Former Secretary of War, Shows How Popular Government in New York State Will Be Rendered Stronger and Better by New Fundamental Law—Opposition Is Based on Selfish and Partisan Motives.

Oct. 19, 1915.

To the Editor:
Sir—The time which has elapsed since the Constitutional Convention finished its labors at Albany gives us an opportunity to get a birdseye view of its work as a whole and also to take stock of some of the objections which have been made against it.

The cardinal purpose of the Convention was to establish responsible government in all the branches and subdivisions of the State. This purpose runs through all of the chief amendments which were adopted and by it the Constitution must and should be judged.

We found a lamentable condition in the efficiency of our government. Its running expenses had increased nearly 600 per cent in thirty years, where the population had only increased 32 per cent. Its cost was rapidly outrunning our taxable resources, and this year it became necessary to impose for the first time a very heavy direct State Tax, with every prospect of it being necessary to continue that tax for years to come. Twenty years ago we had practically no State debt. Today we have the highest in the Union, both in the aggregate and per capita, and in the administration of that debt and of its sinking funds, we found gross irregularities and abuses.

The departments of the Executive branch of the State government had increased from thirty-nine in 1894 to sixty in 1904 and to 152 today, without any effective check upon their growth or any effective supervision over their extravagances.

We found that similar abuses in the government of our cities, counties, towns and villages had given rise to a demand for reform in that direction also. We found that our legislature and its members had their time taken up with a multitude of petty local details which not only prevented them from attending properly to their real business—the decision of the public policies of the State—but which tended to lead toward corruption and graft among those members. The time, attention and zeal of the members of the Senate and Assembly are, under the system which prevails, necessarily devoted more to petty patronage and local favors and less than to the government of the State, while its local bills, just because they are local—and the majority of the other members of the Legislature are not held accountable by their constituents in regard to them—slip through the Legislature without any real scrutiny or responsibility.

The Principle of Responsibility.
Now, the new Constitution systematically and by the application of the single principle of responsibility seeks to meet these various evils. The evils have come because responsibility was scattered and divided and because nobody was given the duty or power or machinery to see that the work was done.

First, we have provided that these 152 boards, commissions and offices shall be grouped by the next Legislature into seventeen departments, each with a responsible head. We give the governor the right to appoint and remove, in his discretion, the heads of eleven of these departments which exercise purely executive functions. This is precisely similar to the power exercised by the Mayor of New York over thirteen departments and by the mayors of other great cities in the State, where the system has worked admirably since it was introduced and has done more than anything else to clean up the sink hole of our municipal politics from the disrepute in which it was held thirty years ago.

Second, in the next place, the Convention found that these 152 present boards of the State are in the habit of shoveling their estimates into the Legislature without any system or revision; that the Legislature considers them in the secrecy of committee and that the great appropriation bills of the State are not reported or considered until the closing hours of the session, when they are rushed through without debate and without the people of the State having any opportunity to criticize or discuss them. We found that these appropriation bills are passed by the Legislature in inflated size and are then turned over to the Governor in the expectation that he will prune them down with his veto power, and that in this way the Legislature surrenders to the Governor the right of holding the purse strings of the State, abdicates his most precious privilege as the representatives of the people.

The New Budget Plan.
We have reversed this illogical and irresponsible method in the new Constitution. The heads of departments must first revise and cut down their departmental estimates. They must then submit them to the Governor, who, after public hearings, must revise them further and unite them into a plan or budget for the entire expenses of the State for the coming year. This budget must be submitted to the Legislature early in the session, not later than the first of February, and this budget must be debated in the open on the floor of the Legislature, where the Legislature has the right to examine the Governor and the heads of his departments as to items which they have proposed. We thus impose upon the Executive the duty of framing an intelligent plan of the State's expenses for the coming year, and we impose upon the Legislature the duty of discussing and finally deciding whether or not it will grant the money thus requested. By this system we return to the time honored system of our fathers, where the representatives of the people held the purse strings.

We provide for a system of publicity and responsibility in place of the present secret and invisible government. In this way we also introduce into the government of the State the simple businesslike methods with which every American business man is familiar. Third, Again we introduce the system of responsibility into our methods of incurring State debts by introducing the serial bond system, under which the same administration which incurs a debt must make provision for paying it off by annual installments, commencing within one year. If the new Constitution is adopted this provision alone will save over ten millions and a half on the new loan for twenty-seven millions which is to be voted for this Autumn to build the canals. It would have saved over forty-six millions had it been employed in the debt of one hundred and eighteen millions, now outstanding for our canals. These figures come from the calculations of the Comptroller of this State, made for the Finance Committee of the Convention. And we provide that bonds must not be issued which will run for a longer period than the life of the improvement for which they are issued. Otherwise, as is the fact under our present system, the people of the State are compelled to pay interest on a debt long after they have ceased to get any benefit from the expenditure.

Municipal Home Rule.

Fourth.—In the provisions of the new Constitution for home rule in cities and counties the Convention has sought to apply the same principle of responsibility as a cure for existing evils. At present the Legislature is constantly compelled to interfere in local matters because it is easier to get a doubtful local bill through the general legislature, where most of the members come from districts having no interest in the matter, than it would be to get it through a board of supervisors or other local authority, all of whose members act under the vigilant scrutiny of the local taxpayers who are affected by the measure. By the home rule provisions of the Constitution we have put the initiative as to special and local bills affecting cities or counties with the local authorities themselves. The members of our Legislature will no longer go to Albany each with his special bill that he has to get through as a condition of being continued in office in the legislature.

In this way we try to make of the legislature a suitable career for an honest and ambitious man instead of an opportunity for petty graft and local politics.

Fifth.—We have sought to end the scandal of the law's delays and expense by concentrating the responsibility for the rules of practice upon the judiciary itself, subject only to the provisions of a simple and simple practice act which cannot be constantly tinkered with by the legislature.

In all these various phases and branches of government their abuses and evils have been notorious and long standing. The Convention has sought to apply a consistent principle as a remedy. We believed that, owing to various defects in our machinery, responsibility for right or wrong doing cannot now be adequately enforced by the people. In order to hold an official responsible for doing wrong he must first be given adequate power to do right. Responsibility without power is as futile as power without responsibility is dangerous. The Convention has sought to combine the two as the essential of effective democracy. Furthermore, as a certain check against any abuse of power, the new Constitution provides everywhere for publicity. It searches out the dark corners of our present invisible government and seeks to have the light of publicity shed upon all the processes.

In these respects the Constitution is the most progressive and important proposition that has been presented to any state government since 1787. Hitherto the remedies which have been suggested for these evils have mainly run in the opposite direction. We have tried to cure complications by more complications, lack of power by still further lessening power, long ballot by still further lengthening ballots, until in some localities it has been urged to cure family representation by destroying representative government altogether.

The revised Constitution, instead of further negation, offers a counteraffirmative. It seeks to perfect representative government rather than to destroy and replace it. It is the first signal concrete effort to meet the evils which have developed in American state governments by a constructive rather than a destructive remedy.

Some Objections Answered.
In the campaign thus far no serious answer has been made on the merits to this cardinal principle of the new Constitution. The objections which have been raised have been to this or that individual feature of the constitution and have been, for the most part, either utterly selfish or based upon erroneous facts or both.

For example, some of the police and firemen are said to oppose it because they fear it would deprive them of the right of court review. They are mistaken. The Constitution does not touch their court review.

Some teachers are said to oppose it because they fear it would turn over control of their salaries to the local authorities. They are mistaken. The new Constitution leaves the entire control over teachers and schools with the state authorities.

Some labor organizations are said to oppose it because they fear it would give greater authority to military courts over labor. They are mistaken. The new Constitution is the same

In this respect as the Constitution has been for 135 years, and labor is entirely protected from the jurisdiction of court martial by the present provisions of the Bill of Rights as they have been construed in this State and in the Supreme Court of the United States.

It has been asserted that the taxation article would introduce a system of inquisition. That is not so. There would be no greater likelihood of the introduction of a system of inquisition under the new article than is likely under the present Constitution. Besides, the taxation article is submitted separately, and the voter who is opposed to that article need not vote against the rest of the Constitution.

A letter has been circulated accusing the Convention of betraying our forests and other natural resources to exploitation by private interests. This letter is utterly false and mendacious. The new Constitution would better protect our forests and other resources than they are protected at present.

It is asserted that the new Constitution would create an autocracy. The reverse is true. It would destroy the autocracy which now exists in the shape of the invisible government of some of our bosses.

During the past two weeks a definite conspiracy has come to light, voiced by some of the newspapers of New York City and evidently originating in the neighborhood of Tammany Hall, to defeat this Constitution in order that a new convention may be held in 1917 under different auspices. Let up state voters beware how they play into the hands of this conspiracy. Let them remember the attempt that was made to gain control of the last Convention by those same conspirators. Let them remember the fraudulent votes that were cast in the gas house district controlled by Mr. Murphy in the special election in June, 1914, and which was subsequently brought to light in the Court investigation. A new Convention in 1917 might not protect the legitimate interests of the up state citizen as well as these were protected by the Convention of 1915. I very much doubt whether either the up state Republicans or Democrats would prefer the efforts or results of a Convention in 1917 controlled in the interests of Tammany Hall to the one last summer presided over by Elihu Root. Very respectfully, (Signed) HENRY L. STIMSON.

GOOD ADVICE ON NEW CONSTITUTION.

Voters who are in doubt about how they should vote on the proposed constitution cannot well do better than follow the advice of the committee for the adoption of the constitution, which has been conducting a remarkable campaign of education and publicity to make known the merits of the great question in which the voters of the state must vote next Tuesday. This committee is made up of prominent men of the three leading political parties who are well known throughout the state and whose names are a guarantee of their worth and standing. It is headed by United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Alton B. Parker, former chief justice of the court of appeals and Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1904, its vice chairman. Among the other names familiar to every one in New York state are those of Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain and president of the constitutional convention of 1894; Charles Andrews, former chief judge of the court of appeals; Andrew D. White, ex-president of Cornell and ambassador to Germany; David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany; Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; Francis Lynde Stetson, the eminent New York lawyer and former law partner of President Cleveland; Frank A. Munsey, the publisher; George Eastman and William M. Calder.

This committee has published a score of pamphlets explaining the main provisions of the proposed constitution and has distributed upward of a million of them to the voters of the state. It is represented by strong local committees in many of the cities. Its campaign has been conducted in an open and aboveboard manner. It has publicly stated that it will file with the secretary of state a statement of its receipts and expenditures and will mail a copy to every citizen who contributes to its work. In this regard its methods are distinctly different from those of the mysterious home rule tax committee which has been carrying on a campaign of misrepresentation in regard to the tax article and of the man who has been spreading abroad willful and gross misstatements in regard to the conservation article. Neither of these has offered to take the public into his confidence.

NOT ALL CAPTAINS.

Some Members of the Small Company Were Really Privateers.

An American woman—now safe in the States—writes that while she was in Mexico five soldiers one day rode into her remote mountain camp. They were very decent fellows, and made no threats. Still, in the absence of her husband, it seemed only wise to give them plenty of food and drink, also to yield gracefully to the request of one of the number, who said he was the captain, for the "loan" of a blanket.

Pretty soon a second warrior intimated that he, too, could use a blanket to advantage in his campaigning, adding that he, too, was a captain. When a third made the same request, also announcing his rank as that of captain, their hostess paused in her distribution of blankets.

"Tell me," she inquired politely, "is this entire detachment composed of captains?"
"Oh, no, senora," replied the one who had first spoken. "I am the Captain Primero, this is the Captain Segundo and that is the Captain Tercero. Those—indicating the two remaining—are the private soldiers."

And at this the admiring senora, according to her own account, at once gave a blanket to each of the two "high privates in the rear rank"—moved by "sympathy with them for being captained first, secondly and even thirdly, and also by admiration of them as being such rare birds."—Youth's Companion.

Balm for the Preacher's Son.

"I do not support the proverbial theory that all ministers' sons are good for nothing," says Mrs. Freda Kuppel, the short grass widow. "My first husband was a preacher's son, and I was able to put up with him a year and eight months, whereas my second mate, the son of a railroad conductor, received his passports after a residence of 14 months."—Kansas City Star.

Fire Extinguisher.

A bottle containing the following mixture should be kept at hand in case of fire. Three pounds of salt are dissolved in a gallon of water, and to this is added a pound and a half of sal ammoniac. This poured on the beginning of the flame will extinguish it.

Golf's Hardest Shots.

"I have heard many debates as to the hardest and the easiest clubs to play," says Jerome D. Travers, the famous golfer, in the American Magazine. "I should say the hardest shot in the game, the one that has fewer masters, is the full iron shot to the green. Running a close second is the mashie notch. There are fewer golfers by far who can play these two shots well than those who are good drivers or good putters. The easiest shot in golf is the drive, and the simplest is the putt. But as putting is almost purely a mental proposition it probably varies more with all players than any other shot."

"You see very few good sound iron players, especially among the amateurs in America. In England their iron play is much better."

Chivalry.

"Do you know," said the particularly well-groomed and elaborately vivacious lady in the full bloom of her second youth, "that I have the most wonderful gardener in the world—the tenderest hearted not only of gardeners, but of men? He has always made me up a very special bouquet on my birthday and presented it to me in person. But ever since I was thirty—well, he's only given me a birthday bouquet every third year."

Ant Fireworks.

There has been observed a curious phenomenon connected with the nests of the Brazilian white ants or termites. These when seen on the headwaters of the Rio Verde seem to be covered with tiny stars, which give the nests the aspect of a miniature tower brilliantly illuminated. It is the easiest thing in the world to spend money foolishly or carelessly. It takes strength and determination to resist the temptation to do so, but successfully resisting the temptation brings two rewards—a stiffening of your mental and moral backbone and an increase in your material resources.

CHARACTER SKETCH OF SIR JOHN FRENCH

London, Oct. 28.—In the Daily Express the Countess of Warwick gives an interesting sketch of Sir John French. She writes:

My first meeting with Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the "contemptible little army" that is busy helping to make history, dates back to the South African war. My latest meeting with him was in August of last year. On each occasion he was on the point of leaving for the front.

In the wide space that separates the Boer war from the great international conflict, we met very often; he was frequently one guest at Eton Lodge and sometimes at Warwick Castle, and I visited him at Government House, Aldershot. I have had many opportunities of hearing his views of the world problem that confronts us now, for he had seen it coming nearer and nearer, and had labored night and day to meet it. Other men had doubts; he found no room for any.

It was at Claridge's Hotel we met during the Boer war. My eldest son, Guy, Lord Brooke, had then arrived at the ripe age of seventeen, and still at Eton, had sold all his personal effects, including his fur coat and jewelry given him by family and friends, to provide himself with the means of getting to the front and equipping himself when there. We only learned his intentions when it was too late to stop them, and I do not think that either my husband or myself was really anxious to keep him from serving his country. The only difficulty was to find him something useful to do, and Sir John offered to take him on his staff as gallopier. Today I am pleased to think that he is still serving under him, now as lieutenant-general.

I recall General French as I saw him at Claridge's, firm mouthed, curt in manner, briefly incisive in speech, saying no more than was absolutely necessary, and looking at me with the curious glance that bespeaks the man of action who dreams and sees visions. A strong, resolute figure, with an iron will behind it, a human war machine in perfect order—that was my first impression.

Many of my soldier friends were with him in South Africa, where his gifts as a cavalry leader roused enthusiasm. Writing home from the front, they told me he had but one fault as a commanding officer—he could not realize that horses do not respond as readily as soldiers to human emotions. He could overdrive his men, and they did their utmost for him, as they did for another martinet, the late General Gatacre, because in each case they had implicit belief in their leader's direction and unbounded faith in his skill, but he never worked his horses, and kept the remnants demoralized in despair.

He came back to England wearing all the laurels of a successful general, and I met him several times in town. "The dust of praise that is blown everywhere," was no more to John French than any other dust. He brushed it sharply away, and devoted all his leisure to considering the problems of war.

When the Entente Cordiale was in the air and there was a chance that Great Britain and France would work side by side, he was delighted. Such an arrangement was for him an ideal one, and he was, I may say, one of the first, if not the very first, of our leading military men who showed a full appreciation of its value. Unfortunately, though a well educated and, in a strictly professional sense, a deeply read man, he had no knowledge of the French language, and he could not rest until that defect was remedied. So in the summer of 1906—I think this was the year—he settled in the little village of La Bouille near Rouen, and lived for three months in absolute retirement, mastering the language. He would not claim to have acquired the Parisian accent, but he can at least speak fluently.

We were motoring through France that summer, and stayed in the little hotel he had chosen for his headquarters. He was extremely anxious to take me on a motor tour over the scene of Napoleon's last campaign, an ambition of long standing only now possible of fulfillment. We came very near to going with him, but, unfortunately, something intervened. Even Sir John cannot make war anything but unspeakable horrible to me, but I am yet free to confess that his vast knowledge and soul-deep convictions make it fearfully interesting.

Taking for his motto "Fas est ab hoste doceri"—"It is allowable to learn even from an enemy"—he adapted what he thought was best from the German methods, and it is well known that he and his close friend, Sir Douglas Haig, in making the British army the perfect machine that it is, bore well in mind the lessons to be gathered from the German manoeuvres.

He objected strongly to the German close formation, holding it wasteful and useless. He had gained much of his tactical knowledge, and of the drilling of our men was terribly bored, he said, by the German method of the rifle platoon in that wonderful retreat from Mons and in the battles around Ypres. For German thoroughness he had a generous and unstinted admiration. Prejudice can find no place in his mind.

A born soldier, he is merciless to the inefficient. He broke a high officer, who was also a personal friend, because that officer made a bad blunder. Private considerations were swept aside, as they always are with him. He spares nobody, least of all himself, but his men love him almost as much as they trust him, and he feels, including his fur coat and jewelry, over their proper comforts with a jealous eye. They are the component parts of the war machine, and must be kept in the best.

I do not think Sir John reads much, save books dealing with military questions. He does not hunt, nor shoot, or play polo, or indeed, acknowledge the claims of any form of sport. He stands as far apart from the ordinary mundane interests of life as any professor in the cloistered peace of an old university town, and yet he is full to the brim of vitalizing enthusiasms not to be overlooked by his friends because they are so finely controlled.

He lives in his profession and breathes the very air of it; soldiering claims his every thought, and yet he is in no aspect the "beau sabreur" of the Ouida novels. If you were to drive with him through the most exquisite landscape, his mind's eye would once select the salient points of attack and defense, he would grasp every military possibility of what lay before him, but the surrounding beauty would pass him by. Sometimes we have talked of war, "I hate war as much as you do," he has said to me more than once, "but there it ends, and he is looking with far-seeing eyes at encounters yet to be.

In the conventional sense he has no religion, and yet I regard him as one of the most religious men I know. His views of the hereafter are clear; he is confidently assured of the soul's survival, its reincarnation, the fulfillment of its ambitions. He is an idealist, an enthusiast, a man who could not act dishonestly if he tried, terrible in his strength, resistless in his purpose, tireless in his aims.

Much of the recent gossip in London has endeavored to suggest that he has been a party to the intrigues of others. I venture to say that nobody who understands Sir John could make such a foolish mistake. The personal interests and trickery of small nations have no room for him.

First and last and all the time he is a soldier, probably the one soldier who could have overcome the enormous difficulties by which he has been faced. He is the perfect type of the leader of men, but the splendid example of the power of concentration driving a single purpose to its end. I think Frederick the Great would have made much of him and that his chief hero in a military sense, the first Napoleon, whose battle grounds he has covered all Europe over, would have kept him by his side.

It is well for England that she has had a John French to lead her armies.

What Did He Mean?

"Have you noticed, my friend, how many fools there are on earth?"

"Yes, and there's always one more than you think."—Sourire.

Fire in Walden.

The house of Edward Sickles on Capron avenue in Walden was damaged by fire this morning.

About 10 o'clock, William Munson and Chief Hanna of the fire department were nearly overcome from smoke and the first named had to be carried from the burning building.

Mrs. Sickles, who was in a hysterical condition, was attended by Dr. N. B. Pallen. The damage will amount to $500.

Automobile Burned.

A Metz runabout, thought to be owned by a Newburgh man, was burned near the home of F. W. McConnell in Marlborough on Wednesday night. It was damaged beyond repair and was towed to the Marlborough garage.

Tracing the Water.

Why is there so much water in a watermelon? Because it is planted in the spring.

HALLOWEEN FESTIVAL.

An Evening of Enjoyment at Rondout Presbyterian Church.

The Halloween festival given on Wednesday evening in the chapel of the Rondout Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the young ladies of the Westminster Guild and the young men of the Ushers' Club of the church, was a social as well as a financial success, and the young people deserve great credit for arranging a most enjoyable evening.

The large chapel was tastefully and artistically decorated for the occasion with pumpkins and corn-stalks and the spirit of Halloween was carried out in the decorations and the program that was carried out was appropriate to the evening.

The entertainers were all gowned in white shrouds which successfully hid their identity and added to the gaiety of the occasion. The dance of the pumpkins and the playing of the ghostly orchestra from Cornstalk Hollow was exceptionally good. One of the hits of the evening was the first appearance of the "moo cow," who chased the fiddlers from the scene. The "cow" by its "graceful" actions kept the audience in a roar of laughter. Every number on the first part of the program was exceptionally good.

Throughout the evening a number of fine musical selections were rendered on a Columbia, kindly furnished for the occasion by the L. B. Van Wageningen Company of Wall street.

The second part of the entertainment was devoted to a fine exhibition of magic by Fred Van Deusen, assisted by his brother, Sanford Van Deusen. As amateur magicians, the brothers have no equal in Ulster county and the finished performance given was equal, if not better, than exhibitions given by professionals who have visited Kingston. They had a number of new illusions and tricks which were shown for the first time and their work deserves high praise. As usual they held the close attention of their audience who were high in their praise of the finished work of the brothers.

At the close of the program the Cornstalk Hollow fiddlers headed a procession formed by every one in the audience and a trip through the Chamber of Horrors was made. That the trip was successful was shown by the fact that a number were not satisfied with the trip through, but were bent on making another tour of the chamber.

One of the features of the evening was the cave of the witch, Miss Dorothy Brown, who told your fortune if you crossed her palm with a jitney.

Ice cream and cake were served at the close.

MAMMA OBJECTED.

Wordy War And a Few Slaps in the City Hall.

All business was suspended at the city hall for a short time on Wednesday while every one in the building was busily engaged in watching the drama from real life unfolded by a man of 42 years of age and a young woman of 24 years, who had called at the city hall to secure a marriage license. They entered the city clerk's office but as it was noon he was out to lunch and while waiting for his return, which was expected at any minute, they heard the sound of a woman's voice on the floor below.

The voice was the voice of the young woman's mother and an agonized glance was exchanged between the loving ones and with one accord they slipped out of the city clerk's office and before the owner of the voice had reached the second floor the young couple had stolen away up to the vacant third floor of the building where amid the cobwebs had hidden away.

They remained in hiding for some time and then when the voice of the one feared was no longer to be heard in the hallway below they crept downstairs and ran plumb into the mother and the two sisters of the young woman. What followed caused all business to cease for a short time while those in the building who could possibly leave their work for a few minutes did so.

From what was exchanged between the participants of the drama it was soon evident that the mother and the two sisters had serious objections to the young woman marrying the man of her choice whom they addressed with such affectionate terms as "cur" and even stronger expressions of disapproval.

The wordy war that followed was one seldom equalled and the flow of oratory would have delighted the heart of a Democrat "orator" in search of suitable language to use from the stump during the present campaign.

From an exchange of words it was but a short step to the exchange of blows and the mother administered several stinging slaps in the face to her daughter after vainly urging her to leave the man and return home to mother.

By this time the racket had attracted the attention of the police on duty at headquarters and they nobly resolved to act as peacemakers. Every one knows what happens to a peace maker in a quarrel, especially in a family jar, and it is needless to state what followed.

The scene of the battle by this time had shifted to the lower hall where the heavy artillery of words opened up again and the bombardment continued for fully two hours and finally there was a pause and a few minutes later all the participants left the building. Whether the battle was resumed later is not known but it is known that no marriage license has been issued as yet.

The participants, it is understood, have been residents of Kingston for but a brief period.

New Contracting Company.

H. C. Ferguson of 114 O'Neil street, superintendent of state highways for Samuel Beskin of Beacon, and F. D. Brooks of Ilion, N. Y., have formed a company which will be known as the Mohawk Engineering Company. They were the successful bidders on the Oneida-South Bay highway. Their friends wish them success.

Don't Forget

Coffee contains the drug, caffeine—about 2½ grains to the cup.

Some people use coffee for years and either forget or don't know that caffeine is a cumulative poison, working away in the system, insidiously undermining and destroying health.

Some of the signs are headache, heart flutter, sleeplessness, biliousness and various stomach, kidney and liver troubles.

Of course, if one prefers his coffee, and is willing to put up with these "comforters," why—keep right on!

But, if one values health and real comfort, and at the same time would enjoy a delicious, wholesome beverage, the thing to do is to quit coffee and use

POSTUM

BIRDS EYE VIEW OF VENICE - ST. MARK'S IN FOREGROUND.

VENICE BOMBARDED BY AUSTRIAN AERIAL RAIDERS.

Bird's eye view of Venice, showing St. Mark's in the foreground. In three aeroplane attacks on Venice on Sunday night, several incendiary bombs were dropped on the city, the lighting in the famous St. Mark's piazza. Some damage was done to the Doge's Scardi Church, but no one was killed.

Aids and Abets Disease.
Doctors have learned that worry means insomnia, nervous dyspepsia, hysteria, that it weakens the bodily defenses and aids the attack of diseases of microbic origin. It is the precursor or predisposing cause of many bodily ills; it is the one thing which saps the patient's vitality—which, broadly speaking, is his power to will to get well.

Particular as to Diet.
De Quincy, the writer, during the last 30 years of his life invariably made his dinner of a slice of mutton and a dish of rice. He insisted that the cook cut his meat in a diagonal rather than a longitudinal form, declaring that, "otherwise, consequences incalculably distressing to my system will arise and will prevent me from attending to matters of overwhelming importance."

Y.M.C.A. SCORE NOW STANDS AT 322

With the campaign fast drawing to a close, the Y. M. C. A. membership teams have so far secured 322 members and on election day, Tuesday of next week, it is expected that the total membership of the association will be well over the one thousand mark. Every effort is being made from now on to put each team in the first column and it is expected that a rousing finish will mark the close of the campaign.

The result of the games brought to a close on Wednesday evening show that 15 more members were added to the number already secured, making the total so far this month of 322.

The results of the "games" played on Wednesday in both the American and National Membership League were as follows:

I Am Perfectly Satisfied!

That is a simple phrase, but to feel that way, when you are buying Cloaks, Waists, Skirts and Furs is a matter that requires foresight and good judgment.

If we could read to you some of the letters that we receive from our customers, expressing their satisfaction of their purchase at our store you would be anxious to number yourself as one of our customers.

A school teacher from Saugerties in her letter to us said: "The memory of the cloth and style remains long after the price is forgotten."

Another lady from High Falls writes:

"The only trouble I find with garments purchased at your store is that I can't wear them out."

Letters of that character that we receive daily, are evidence of our ability to please trade.

WE want you to compare our merchandise with others as to material, as to style and as to our Popular price. One ounce of that kind of comparison is worth a ton of argument.

If you will obey that impulse you will find yourself satisfied with our merchandise as thousands of others are.

Remember, we advertise only what we have and exactly as it is.

DELATED OLIVE REPORT.

Taxpayers Reminded of a Few Things Worth Thinking About.

Saunderston, Oct. 28. There is now being mailed to each voter of the town of Olive a supervisor's report of the financial conditions of the town. It states the total indebtedness of the town on January 1, 1914, was $14,700, and on January 1, 1915, no indebtedness. It also states the town is clear from debt. The taxpayers are to be congratulated themselves that this unknown debt is paid and the taxpayers certainly have paid it. Why was this statement of indebtedness not brought out in 1907? The same two men that were at the head of the ticket in 1906 are the candidates for supervisor at the coming election, and it should be remembered by the voter and taxpayer that this debt was not created under a Republican administration. It was made and paid under a Democratic administration and if a true statement had been published in 1906 of the town's affairs, Hugh Donhue would have been elected the 1906 supervisor of Olive. The city of New York has taken over one-third of the town's roads and if we could not get even at this time, when could we? The taxpayer should ask himself for what the $14,700 debt was.

BEARSVILLE.

Bearsville, Oct. 28. Mrs. Fredenburg of Hurley spent the week end with Miss Vera Shultis. Mrs. Penton Lane of Willow spent last week with her sister Mrs. A. E. Shultis. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Happy of Whiteburg are spending some time with their daughter, Mrs. T. P. Shultis. Miss Gertrude Shaver and N. D. Wilcox of Mt. Tremper spent Sunday with Miss Edy the Shultis. The young people of Whiteburg and this place gave Miss Edna Shultis a surprise party on Tuesday evening of last week. All reported Miss Shultis a delightful entertainer. Mrs. Ira B. Hare of Poughkeepsie is spending a few days with her sister, Edna Shultis. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Myers spent Saturday night and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. F. G. Shultis. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Happy and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shultis. Foster and Thomas Shultis caught two raccoons weighing 10 pounds and 12 pounds. P. R. Shultis has nearly 300 barrels of apples packed for market.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, Oct. 28.—A straw-load from this place attended the oyster supper at Tabasco on Saturday evening. Ten of our young people comprised the load. A fine time was spent.

Miss Pearl Enderly, who has been employed for the past year at George Hornbeck's at Wawarsing is spending a month's vacation at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Hendrickson.

Many were in attendance at the Reformed Church on Sunday morning and report a very interesting sermon on "No License" having been given.

This place was very much shocked and grieved on Sunday to hear of the death of Mrs. Virgil Chambers of Whitefield. Heartfelt sympathy of all is extended to the husband and family in this their hour of sorrow.

Mrs. S. E. Churchwell was one of our Sunday school workers and teachers who attended the Sunday School Convention at Kingston on Wednesday. She enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. Churchwell spent Wednesday and Thursday in Kingston and while in town was the welcome guest of her cousin, Miss John Newkirk.

Mrs. Jacob Hornbeck was another one of our Sunday school teachers whose name was on the list of those present at the Sunday School Convention. She attended several interesting sessions.

James H. Wood of Lake Mohonk was an over Sunday guest at his home in this place.

All the men and boys are enjoying choice smokes of good brands of cigars nowadays. Clay pipes are thrown aside. The meaning of all this is plainly seen, election time is near at hand. On all side the aroma of fragrant Havanas floats on the air.

Hickory nuts are rather scarce in this vicinity, also chestnuts, which are at a premium here, owing to the blight in the trees.

A large amount of threshing has been done during the week at Eli Osterhoudt's, Roswell Osterhoudt's, Jesse Osterhoudt's and John Van Demark's.

The girls of the G. A. R. Club met at the home of Mrs. Henry Frost on Saturday afternoon. Refreshments were served and a very sociable hour spent.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bush has returned home after an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Winfield Depuy at Kerhoukton.

James H. Enderly was a caller in town during the week.

Friend Smith, Harry Osterhoudt and Miss Jennie Osterhoudt were the guests for dinner at Stanley Kelder's on Saturday, and for supper, accompanied by Master Robert Kelder, they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Osterhoudt.

Oscar Mackey, who has been employed all summer at Jerome Enderly's at Whitefield, visited his home in this place on Sunday.

Mrs. Eli Osterhoudt was out calling during the week. Some of the inhabitants attended the auction of E. Christiansa at Millbrook on Thursday.

Miss Rosa Depuy is home for the winter from Lake Mohonk.

Seven Good Reasons For Buying Savard & McCarthy Ready Suits and Overcoats

- 1—You see the clothes ready; not a piece of cloth
- 2—You see them on you—not a picture of a suit or overcoat
- 3—You see how they fit—before you buy, not after
- 4—You see if pattern and style are becoming—don't guess
- 5—You choose in a few minutes—no delay or waiting for order to be made up
- 6—You save money—get quality and style at fair price
- 7—You get choice from finest suits and overcoats made by those master-tailors: Hickey Freeman Co. and the Society Brand

A splendid lot of such clothes is ready now,

Suits—$15 to $30
Overcoats—$15 to $30

The man who pays about $22 hits the greatest combination of style and value that ever he could ask.

More of Those Boys' Fine Ivan Frank Suits and Overcoats

One fact stands plainly out: Suits are finest that are built for boys. 2 pairs of pants. They are finest in style, in tailoring, in effect. When Dad or Mother buys an Ivan Frank for boy, full value is sure. More new ones are ready. Smart mixtures and handsome plain fine woollens—very sorts that boys' good taste impels them to pick. $3.98, $4.98, $5.85.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Oct. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moule have returned from Schuylerville, where they were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cruikshank.

Mrs. Gertrude Simpson had friends from Walden visiting her the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Winthrop Williams had several guests recently from Marlborough.

What was called a "Mothers Meeting" was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Brown. The P. E. O. Society gave this and had a few friends invited to hear Mrs. Saltford of Poughkeepsie speak. Every one present enjoyed the afternoon's pleasure greatly.

Ladies' Auxiliary Club of M. E. Church will hold their regular business and social meeting at the home of Mrs. Isaac Aldrich, Milton avenue, on Friday afternoon, November 5. A full attendance is cordially requested by the cabinet, as there is a great deal of business to come before the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller have now moved on Washington avenue. Mrs. Abraham Brinkerhoff and daughter, Miss Belle, were among the many shoppers in Poughkeepsie last week.

Friday afternoon the Missionary Society of First M. E. Church held a food sale consisting of white and rye bread, entire wheat and nut bread, cakes and many other good eatables. It was held in J. W. Feeter's store. They were patronized finely and disposed of everything, and as is generally the case, not enough to supply the demand. A nice sum was realized and the committee in charge express their gratitude to all who supplied the good things and to all who purchased same.

Clarence Smides of this place spent a short time in West Park recently with friends.

Mrs. Clifford Terpening was a visitor in Marlborough last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George DuBois and children of Beacon were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theron DuBois of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller were week end guests of relatives in Newburgh.

Mrs. Ford Lasher and children were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Wert of Maple avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. James Relyea were out of town last Saturday.

Mrs. Oren Sheeley was a shopper in Poughkeepsie last week.

There was a food sale Saturday last in suffrage rooms for the benefit of the Presbyterian Church.

Temperance lecture was well attended and the speaker, Mr. MacNicholl, of Kingston, delighted all. The orchestra played nicely and singing was good.

Mrs. Daniel Staar was hostess to the U. D. Society Saturday afternoon last.

October 29 there will be a Halloween social in Presbyterian Church parlor. They will undoubtedly have a jolly time.

Few of our people motored to Newburgh last week and attended the performance given there in the theatre of "High Links." They report it was worth going to see.

Andrew W. Ford has been a business visitor in New York city the past week.

Suffrage posters are out through this place and Lloyd and some of the women are working tooth and nail for the vote.

We are delighted to learn that our friend Stephen Ward has entered Eastman's Business College in Poughkeepsie.

The house now occupied by Dr. Bickely will soon be vacated by him and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. Andrews. Dr. Bickely will move to his recently purchased property on Vineyard avenue and Church street, where some time in November his M. D. sign will be displayed there and he ready to administer to the wants of all who desire his services. Do not forget the new address.

Miss C. Bond entertained a lady friend from Milton last week.

E. Dimsey of New York was a guest at his home on North Road recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerlich had friends there for visit last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Auchmoody of Washington avenue entertained a few friends from out of town last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harcourt had a few guests the past week from New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. George Upright motored to New York city last Sunday. They report a delightful trip.

This Friday evening a Halloween party will be held in the M. E. Church under the auspices of the Epworth League and also one in the Presbyterian Church. A grand time is looked forward to.

Mrs. Byron Clearwater has returned to her home here after two weeks spent pleasantly in New York, New Rochelle and East Orange.

Milo Gregory of this place was a business visitor in New Paltz recently. Also Harold Upright.

The Masonic Lodge held their regular meeting Monday evening.

Dr. Freston and wife were in town yesterday. She is one of the suffragists from Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilcox have returned from Danbury, Conn., where they spent a short time visiting relatives.

The Queen Esther Society of the M. E. Church held their regular business and social combined at the home of the Dickinson members on New Paltz road. All had a pleasant evening and refreshments were served and games and music was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Maynard spent a few days this week in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller of Poughkeepsie were Sunday visitors in this place.

Myron Terpening, who is at present employed in New Jersey, spent the week end with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Zophar Aldrich motored to Great Barrington last week. They were delighted with the trip. The scenery being most beautiful at this time of the year.

Miss Alberta Allen has returned from Lake Mohonk, where she spent five months delightfully. It is an ideal spot and hotel filled always with first class people, making it a pleasure to remain there.

Suffrage people expect to have a big time Saturday, October 30. Every one is invited to participate in the parade. There will be a crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Pratt spent a few days in New York city this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Young of Monroe visited relatives here last Sunday. They motored to this place and had a fine trip.

There was a business meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Isaac Aldrich. We were informed it was to complete the plans for the celebration of the second anniversary of D. of A., which will be held on Wednesday evening, November 3, in the council chamber. They expect a large delegation from different places.

Some of the people here who are running for office can be seen daily motoring around, canvassing for votes on the various tickets. This seems to be the life of the politician.

Prayer meetings at the homes of people through the different sections of the village Tuesday evening were very well attended. At the time for people to go there was a heavy thunder shower. This perhaps prevented some from attending.

Mrs. Dobbs, Sr., has had her flag walk rekind on her property, which is a great improvement. All good things come to those who wait, and we think that at the lower end of the village improvements are just coming on nicely, as one could expect. Perhaps in the future some better ones still.

Mrs. Gibson and children of Albany have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitley for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Staar were business visitors in New York city recently.

J. W. Feeter entertained his Sunday school class Friday evening last. They had a glorious time and the boys think Mr. Feeter is just the best fellow out. Games were played and there was music and fine refreshments served during the free and easy discussions of the boys. To say they spent a splendid and profitable evening at the Feeter home with their teacher, is only giving facts, and all wished for the time to come soon for the class to again assemble for a social time. It was late when good night was said, and best wishes of the class were extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feeter.

Lorin Osterhoudt is now enjoying a short vacation.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. Knickerbocker had a few friends in for dinner.

Charles Clinton, Sr., was quite badly hurt Tuesday evening. His horse became frightened and ran and collided with an automobile and this threw Mr. Clinton to the street, striking the curb and he was picked up unconscious and taken home where the physician found a broken rib. He is doing as well as can be expected. His wagon was demolished.

Mrs. Marie Harper of Clintondale is visiting Mrs. G. Cornell on White street.

Baraca Class Banquet.

The Baraca Class of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church held its second annual banquet in the Y. M. C. A. building on Wednesday evening. A fine menu was served in highly satisfactory manner by Chef Gus

Stewart and his able assistants. After the banquet routine matters of the organization were discussed, followed by the election of officers as follows: President, William Engle, vice president Harold Buddington; secretary Edward Blankenship; treasurer, R. Halwick. Possibilities for young men in the church, Sunday school and Y. M. C. A. was the theme of the evening and were forcibly given by the Rev. A. S. Cole, who spoke on "The Church," Dr. G. F. Banker, whose address was on "The Sunday School," and H. Every, on "The Y. M. C. A." The organization is expecting to do a greater work the coming year than ever before. The banquet ended by all present clapping hands and singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Basketball Friday Evening.

The opening of the basketball season in Kingston will be the occasion of great rejoicing on Friday evening. The fast Patterson team will clash with Company M and that announcement is sufficient for Kingston fans to bring out a crowd expecting some action from the second that the referee's whistle blows. It will be welcome news to the local fans that Ed Wachter, one of the old favorites here, will play forward with Company M. Members of the local guard are expecting a record breaking crowd for the premier game and they can expect to see some fast work as both teams have been practicing for some time for the opening of the season.

Rowe-Hendricks Appeal Argued.

The court of appeals on Tuesday heard argued the appeal in the case of George Rowe against David B. Hendricks. The plaintiff appeals from a judgment of the appellate division reversing a judgment in plaintiff's favor and dismissing the complaint with costs on the ground that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. The action grew out of an automobile accident in which plaintiff was run down at Broadway and Elmendorf street. He sustained a broken nose and suffered from shock. The case was argued by James Jenkins for plaintiff and John G. Van Elten for respondent.

Lines of Advantage

The thousands of lines of type found on the Want Ad pages of this paper are lines of advantage to those who avail themselves of their opportunity-yielding properties.

Each little Want Ad points a way to success in one field or another, to some reader. Now, it is a new and better paying job that is obtained through the Want; again it is a domestic servant, or a stenographer, or clerk, or a house and lot, or a furnished room, or flat, that is hired, rented, or bought, all through a Freeman Want Ad.

Don't overlook the opportunity yielding lines of type in The Freeman Want Ad pages in the future.

RECORD BREAKING MILLINERY PRICES

Amazing Offerings at Carls Millinery Department For the Week-End—Styles and Materials Those in Greatest Demand.

Another attempt at revolutionizing the selling of high class millinery is to be made at Carls Millinery Department during the balance of this week—and those days are to be filled with the most astounding values—in some instances, comprising elegant lines that manufacturers have sent to Carls to create good-will for future business. The backward season has left large overstocks on millinery manufacturers' hands which they feel impelled to close out at a loss for "spot cash," and the Carls millinery has purchased heavily.

The great week-end sale includes unfurrowed shapes in silk, velvet and plush, in colors and black. A fifteen-dollar sample lot of pretty new shapes arrived Wednesday and are now on sale. Values range from $2.50 to $3.97. Friday and Saturday they go at $1.00 and $1.50.

Another lot of French Curled Ostrich Plumes, in all the newest colorings, worth regularly $3.50, are offered at $1.50.

Ostrich Neck Boas—black, white and combination colors—that formerly sold at $3.00, choice at $1.97.

New Trimmed Hats turned out in our own work room daily are a revelation in beauty and price—lowness. For instance, Lyons Silk Velvet Hats that are worth $8.50 in a regular way, choice Saturday at $4.97.

If every woman in Kingston who needs a new hat should come to Carls now she could be fitted out with a different shape and trimmings. Exclusiveness is a cardinal principal here.

Emphasizing a Fact. There are peculiarities, idiosyncrasies of expression, which emphasize and accentuate facts. It is not enough to say "he is deaf." We invariably add "as a post." It would appear sufficient to say "he is blind," but we prefer in nearly all cases to admit of no contradiction by announcing that he is "stone blind." To be "dead" should suffice. "Dead as a doornail" clinches the fact.

The Limit. "Well, if that Watson isn't the most conceited, self satisfied, self—" "Yes, I've heard you say something of that kind before. What's started you off this time?" "He just sent a telegram of congratulations to his mother." "Well?" "Today's his birthday." — Every body's.

Arrangements for the grand convocations of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York are expected to witness the ceremonies.

The Hunting Season

This is the "hunting season" in more ways than those marked by the bang of the gun.

It is the season when we are on the hunt for new attire for new things for the home, and for many necessities for personal comfort.

It is a sort of prelude to what is called the "dress-up" season of the year.

It is a season when the stores are at their best and when the advertising columns of a live newspaper like The Freeman are bursting with human interest.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 28.—Vigorous trading occurred in many groups of stocks at the opening this morning. Copper issues were more prominent. Anaconda, which closed yesterday at 78 1/2, advanced to 79 1/2, a new high record since the dissolution of the Amalgamated Company. Inspiration and Utah scored substantial gains. A number of the railway stocks were also in brisk demand. The Washoe shares moved up further. There was active buying of Southern Railway common at 24 1/2 to 25, against 23 1/2 at the close yesterday. Canadian Pacific rose 1 1/2 to 17 1/2 and fractional advances were reported in Atchafalaya, Lehigh Valley, Erie, Reading and New York Central. Steel common was traded in on a large scale, but price movement was narrow and at the end of the first fifteen minutes that stock, said at 85 1/2, after opening yesterday's close at 84 1/2. Baldwin Locomotive started at 130, but quickly recovered the loss. Crucible Steel dropped 1/2 to 55 1/2 and Westinghouse lost 1/2 to 71 1/2.

Liquidation in the war order issues were noted in the late forenoon. Some of these issues were in free supply at substantial losses. Studebaker dropped to 169 against 179 1/2 at the close yesterday. A loss of 3 points was sustained in Crucible Steel, which sold at 55 1/2. Baldwin Locomotive dropped to 127 1/2, against 129 1/2 at the close yesterday and a loss of 1 1/2 was noted in Lark, which sold at 79 1/2. Southern Railway common was freely supplied. Steel common was, however, advanced to 24 1/2, a gain in all of a point. Money, 1 1/2 per cent.

Many of the war order stocks sustained further losses in the late afternoon. Studebaker sold down to 158 and Baldwin dropped to 123 1/2. Crucible Steel reacted to 51, a loss in all of five points. The standard issues held fairly well with steel issues held selling around 84. Anaconda was in good demand selling around 79. Reading, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and Union Pacific were in good request, those issues selling fractionally above their midday prices.

The market closed strong for the leading railways and industrials but the specialties were unsettled, following the sensational decline. Erie rose over 2 points to 42, a new high record since 1907. Reading advanced 2 points over 81. Similar gains were made in Louisville and Nashville, Northern Railway, New York Central and other issues. Anaconda sold around 79, the highest since the dissolution of the Amalgamated Company. Steel common, after yielding to 53 1/2, rose to 54 1/2. Government bonds unchanged; other bonds strong.

Grange Supper at Katrine.

Another one of the famous suppers will be given by the Katrine Grange on the evening of November 16. There will be a combination of pork roast and turkey supper with all the "fixins," including cranberry sauce, apple sauce, sauerkraut, etc. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. W. L. Shaw, chairman, and such expert officers of the soil as Kenneth Metzger, Senator Walton, Edgar N. Paley and S. O. Pennington, with James Wright, Valentine E. Gaddis, Mrs. Addie Fisher, Mrs. Edith Lee and John Ten Broeck as assistants.

NEW YORK'S FAULT IS LIVING HIGH

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 28.—It's not the cost of living that's ailing old New York. It's not the price of corn and beans or mutton, beef and pork. It costs about the same for food in this town as in others. We should not envy those out west nor yet our southern brothers. It's not the rent and clothing bills that makes our fathers shy. The root of evil in New York is the cost of living high.

The people of Manhattan waste their money on the frills. They pay big fancy prices to the men who cure their ills. They pour out all their earnings on amusements of all kinds. It's on autos and the movies that they mostly have their minds. The trouble's not necessities; they must have luxuries.

The Central Merchandise Association has found by an expensive investigation that cost of food, clothing and rent is no higher here than elsewhere, but the living cost is sent hiking by the money spent on gaudy and luxury.

Van's garage, No. 708 Broadway, has been taken over by Herbert A. Whitney of Downs street, who will take possession the first of the month and continue the business. The garage is owned by Clarence Hendricks, but was leased by J. Van Benschoten, whose lease expired on Wednesday. The new proprietor will continue the automobile business along the same successful lines carried on by the former lessee of the garage.

Coming Social Events.

The annual ball of the New York Central Benefit Association will be held on Tuesday evening, November 9, in Washington Hall. A large number of West Shore employees from points along the line of the Hudson are expected to be present, as all the social events of the association in previous years have proved great attractions. Music will be furnished by McLean's orchestra.

The United Brewery Workmen are making plans for their annual ball to be held on Wednesday evening, November 24, in Washington Hall.

E. P. James is spending a few days in New York.

The local campaign is getting pretty warm, in fact there has not been so much interest manifested in local politics in years. While we do not desire to pose as a prophet, we consider the Democratic chances pretty slim this year, judging from the talk around. The Republicans have put up a strong ticket throughout, and together with the fact that many voters think the Democrats have been in long enough makes the situation look pretty encouraging to the Republicans. Well, there are good men on both sides so we don't intend to express any preference in this column. Let the voters study up the individual records of the candidates, decide on their merits and ballot accordingly. As for local option, our best citizens say "Kill it dead," and we say to that "Amen."

We are glad to see Mrs. James Gordon out again.

Mrs. Margaret Thiel has returned from a trip to Saugerties.

The men's dinner was a huge success. The eight husky young fellows who waited on table had their hands full with sixty hungry men to feed. Van Criel and the "crub" fixed up in great shape; chickens, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie and so on to the ice cream and cigars. Not much like the usual country church dinner, eh, men? Something to think about through the winter, too, we guess. As one B. W. S. man put it, "the most enjoyable evening I ever spent."

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Oct. 28.—The 1915-16 season of the Base-ball Rumor League has opened quite auspiciously.

It's just a few brief days ago that the curtain was rung down on the last world-series battle, yet since that time Heime the Zim has been "traded" to the Giants, John McGraw has "sold" the Chicago Cubs, entirely without the knowledge of the club owners, one writer has placed the St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates "on sale" in the city of the future, and the Reds are shipped to a fizzle, and at least 50 players have been "slated" for release, sale or trade. Business in the Rumor League certainly is brisk.

Adams Didn't Want to Go.

Jack Adams is another one of those lucky birds. Jack is a catching person who was a third string man with the Giants in 1914. When he was thrown in as the "to boot" part of the Philie-Giant trade he yowled. He didn't want to go to a club that was a certain tail-end; he wanted to stay with the pennant-possibilities—the Giants. But Jack went and got a twenty-third part of the Philie booty.

Concerning "Hurry Up" Yost

"Hurry-Up" Yost occupies the unique position of being the only football coach who ever played with his charges in a regular championship game.

Yost started coaching in 1897, handling the Ohio Wesleyan team. His squad had a game with Michigan and Yost took along his whole aggregation—twelve men. During the game, two of the Wesleyan players were injured, leaving Yost with an incomplete team.

Either the game has got to stop or you've got to let me get in," said Yost to the Michigan officials.

After a conference, it was decided to let Yost play—and he did. He rallied his team. He stiffened the backbones of his weary line-men and he hammered the Maize and Blue line to a near-fizzle every time he ran with the ball.

Wesleyan went to Ann Arbor with the expectation of getting a terrific beating. It probably would have without Yost in the lineup. But Yost got in and the game ended 6-0, with Michigan considering itself mighty fortunate that it wasn't beaten.

A Big Job For Ban.

Ban Johnson, we are told, is going to Philadelphia at some very early date to kick out the Shibe family from part ownership in Athletics and to sell their holdings to somebody else. Ousting the Shibe's may not be a hard job because they are in a mood, but Ban may have quite a job on his hands trying to find an "angel."

Baseball has become an extremely popular game, but a bargain price will bring new blood into the financial end of the game.

Kilbane No Longer An Idol

Johnny Kilbane has ceased to be a drawing card. The listless exhibitions of the leatherstock champion, and his practice of picking pugilistic lions, has soured the fight fans. Even in his home territory he has become unpopular and Johnny faces the alternative of fighting someone over the 20 round division route in the very near future or losing all of his former prestige.

Wilson Wise—That's All

Probably Fred R. Wilson spent $16.80 cabling from Madagascar for two seats for the Yale-Harvard game because he figured that would cost him less than buying two seats from speculators.

HOW TO VOTE FOR THE NEW CONSTITUTION

Become Familiar With This Sample Ballot—Then Vote as Indicated.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTER.

1. To Vote "Yes" on any question make a cross X mark in the square opposite the word "Yes."
2. To Vote "No" make a cross X mark in the square opposite the word "No."
3. Mark only with a pencil having black lead.
4. Any other mark, erasure or tear on the ballot renders it void.
5. If you tear or deface or wrongly mark this ballot return it and obtain another.

YES

NO

QUESTION No. 1.

Revised Constitution.

Shall all of the Revised Constitution submitted by the Constitutional Convention not included in Questions 2 and 3 be approved?

YES

NO

QUESTION No. 2.

Legislative Apportionment.

Shall the Proposed Amendments submitted by the Constitutional Convention to Sections 2, 3, 4 and 5 of Article III relating to legislative apportionment be approved?

YES

NO

QUESTION No. 3.

Taxation.

Shall the new Article X submitted by the Constitutional Convention relating to taxation be approved?

This Explains How to Mark Your Ballot In Order to Vote For the Proposed Constitution.

Voters who desire to express their approval of the work done by the recent Constitutional Convention in its entirety will put a cross (X) mark in each one of the squares opposite the word "YES." If you do not agree with all of these propositions you can vote "NO" on any one of them without affecting the other two.

If you believe that the revised constitution as submitted by the convention with the exception of the legislative apportionment and taxation articles, should be approved vote "YES" on "Question No. 1." By so doing you will be approving the proposals for:

1. The reorganization of the administrative state departments on a basis of efficiency.
2. The checking of extravagance in expenditures through the establishment of a state budget.
3. The abolition of the wasteful sinking fund system.
4. An extensive grant of power of local self government to cities and counties.
5. Quicker and cheaper justice through a revision of the rules of civil procedure.
6. The possible extension of workmen's compensation to those suffering from occupational diseases and the regulation of tenement labor, and
7. The extension of state aid to the farmer and landowners in reforestation and the conservation of the soil water supply.

If you vote "YES" on "Question No. 2" you will vote for a legislative apportionment which retains the present limitation on New York city's representation in the legislature and continues the guarantee of at least one assemblyman from every county. You will also be voting for the elimination of the state census, which costs the state a half million dollars every ten years. This reapportionment article, which makes no change in the present basis of representation, was submitted separately at the request of New York city representatives in order that voters in that city might have the opportunity of registering a protest because New York city was not granted representation according to its population, without necessitating a vote against the constitution as a whole.

If you vote "YES" on "Question No. 3" you will be voting in favor of:

1. A centralization of assessment of real estate within the counties whenever such a plan is approved by the voters of a county;
 2. A centralization made possible through legislation of the assessment of personal property;
 3. Permission to the legislature to vest the assessment of the real property of public utility corporations in the state board of tax commissioners, which now assesses their franchises, thus eliminating the frequent evasions due to separate assessment.
- If you vote in a district where voting machines are used make sure that a PAPER BALLOT is handed to you and that you vote it. This will be the ballot on which the questions submitted by the Constitutional Convention are printed. You will use the voting machine in choosing your candidates for office and in signifying your approval or disapproval of the $27,000,000 canal bond proposition, the woman suffrage amendment and an amendment to allow an alteration of the interest rate, all of which were submitted by the legislature of 1915.

If you live in a district where voting machines are not used you will be handed THREE BALLOTS. One of them will contain the names of officers to be chosen. Another will contain the two amendments to the existing constitution and the canal bond proposition submitted by the legislature. The third will contain the three questions submitted by the Constitutional Convention as outlined above. Make sure that all three ballots are handed to you and that you return all of them properly marked and folded.

COMMITTEE FOR THE ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Serve This Dainty, Healthful Spread

Marigold is dainty—and good, and healthful. Just smother a piping hot muffin with it—or a biscuit, or a crackly-crust roll, and you'll say "Great." Marigold surely does make friends wherever it's used, because it's creamy, rich and full of rare flavor and goodness.

Marigold Margarine

is pure, clean, delicious—fit for a child or a king. It's made in white-tile chunneries where cleanliness is the watchword, where care is the one great thought. Buy and try Marigold—good dealers, everywhere, sell it.

Morris & Company

Automobile Collision.

An Overland touring car owned and driven by R. S. Patterson of Ellenville collided with a delivery truck of Lewis F. Hicke at the corner of Church and Academy streets in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday afternoon. Both cars were badly damaged but nobody was injured. The Patterson car skidded to the right and smashed into a tree. The radiator and forward guards of the car were smashed and other parts thrown out of alignment.
